Why Professional Music Program at Sejong University?

The Korean Wave is becoming a main component of international culture, and K-pop is one of the most popular contents. Sejong University focuses on training musicians about global trends via music education about K-pop and concentrates on training cultural artists who are needed for each country's future.

Due to the development of the 4th industrial revolution and the multi-media today, the music content is moving rapidly from listening to seeing. Sejong University offers new media contents production courses as well as typical and common music courses in terms of the methods to learn the music content. The program includes differentiated individual classes, such as vocal, music composition, singer-song writer, musical instruments, EDM, hip-hop, audio engineer, and the music business.

Program Features and Benefits:

- The program offers a competitive curriculum, which is optimized for K-POP.
- The program features recording rooms with state-of-the-art equipment.
- The program provides a private practice space for each student.
- The program provides concert practice sessions, which are simulated to the actual situations that occur in many concert halls.
- The faculty members are currently working in the music industry as musicians and producers.
